

You are invited to observe SOUNDS-WRITE @ Camperdown College

Camperdown College is providing the opportunity for teachers, educational support staff and principal class to observe a systematic, synthetic phonics approach within a school setting. Classrooms throughout Prep – Year 6 will be open showcasing a whole school phonics approach. Schools interested are encouraged to send teachers, along with a member of the principal class team, to observe phonics teaching, with two opportunities available this term.

PLANNING & LEADING SOUNDS-WRITE WITHIN A SCHOOL

Who would this be suited to?

Staff involved in planning phonics at their school.

Staff who have already attended 'A Spotlight on the Classroom' open day at Camperdown College.

What does this involve?

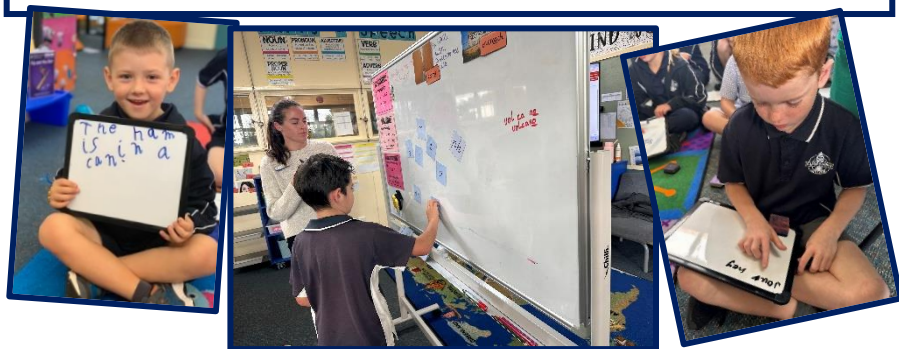

Purpose A two-hour session with staff from individual schools targeting planning and implementation of Sounds-Write. This session will explore embedding Sounds-Write progressively across a school; leading Sounds-Write effectively; monitoring what is taught with fidelity and evaluating the impact of Sounds-Write across a school. Classroom unit planning as well as developing scope and sequences can also be explored.

This session can be adjusted to cater for the needs of individual schools. Implementers at Camperdown College will work with staff responsible for planning and provide support to develop the teaching of phonics at your school. We can come to you, or you can come to us!

Duration 2 hours

Date To be negotiated with individual schools

Cost Confirmed at time of booking

Please contact Jacinta Tolland, Junior Campus Assistant Principal (E: Jacinta.Tolland@education.vic.gov.au or P: 5593 1438) to book.

Priority will be given to schools that expressed an interest or registered in 2022 and schools that are interested in sending a member of their principal class to accompany teachers to observe phonics practice in action.

A similar opportunity will be made available in Term 3 and Term 4 with schools also asked to email their interested in attending these days.
